COCKTAIL BAR

Just a tiny little thank you for taking on this case for Celestine.
I used to tend bar at the Royal Street Social before I became a tattoo artist, and their cocktails are straight-up ridiculous. Enjoy!

The Crossroads

Ingredients: rye whiskey, stout, pecan smoke

• For the smoked stout:

- There are multiple ways to add smoke to a cocktail; one method is using a smoking board and a jar. You will need a wooden smoking board, pecan wood chips, a kitchen torch, and a mason jar with a lid.
- Put a small pile of pecan wood chips on the board and light them with the kitchen torch so they begin to smoke.
- Put the mason jar over the chips to trap the smoke.
- When the jar is full of smoke, quickly add the liquid you wish to smoke to the jar and screw on the lid.
- Swirl the jar for a few minutes to infuse the liquid with smoke.

• For the cocktail:

- 1 oz rye whiskey
- 8 oz chilled stout, infused with pecan smoke
- Luxardo cherry speared on a cocktail pick

• Put the rye whiskey into a rocks glass

• Infuse the stout with pecan smoke following your preferred method or the one suggested above

• Pour the smoked stout over the rye whiskey

• Garnish with the speared luxardo cherry
