

I have to remember: We got this gig because we could handle it. Because I could handle it.

How long have I been out here? Days? Hours? I don't even know anymore.

No Ed. No Ray or Emma (but I've been dreaming about them. Or I've been hearing them?). All I know is that I'm alone and that I can't shake this feeling of déjà-vu.

That doesn't make any sense. I've got to keep it together.

Good things I have going for me:

- Still alive
- Not sick
- Not injured
- Doesn't look like rain

Something's wrong with this place. Where are all the animals?

But if there are no animals, what am I hearing?

South when I get the strength. Bec is probably worried out of her mind. I just need to rest first.

Are my shoes getting smaller? I thought I was wearing them out, but they barely fit now. What kind of stupid trick is that? I hate these woods.

When did I write this ??????

Keeping track. More symptoms: My legs are killing me, feels like muscles are stretching, hands and feet tingling

But that's just dehydration (considered illness? Injury? both?). There's a simple explanation for all this. For why I'm hearing them. Occam's razor. Gotta keep walking though. Doesn't matter if it hurts like hell. South. Towards town.

Resting now. This is pointless.

Good things:

- Still alive
- Doesn't look like rain

I would literally kill someone for a cheeseburger. They taught us which mushrooms to eat in scouts. But if I get it wrong, I'll die. W'Z 791.
S9N8S 119 JNF. Where did Emma put that guide? If I close my eyes and listen, will her whispers tell me?

Another one. Am I hallucinating? Ed said something about opium. Can't remember. There was something about opium and dirt. Like the Salem witches, right? It wasn't witches, it was mold. Mold? Fungus? Same thing. Moldy bread. Mushroom bread. But they ate the bread. I didn't eat the dirt. Did I? Maybe I did. I'm so hungry.

Am I just hallucinating? Hallucinating and running around the woods, freaking out over nothing. Not running around. Walking. Am I walking? Is that what I've been doing? Or am I just lumbering around in circles?

Circles? Is that what this whole thing is? Never ending. I see the same tree. Then the same tree. Then the same tree. Over and over and over. Why do I even bother walking anymore?

"גַּם כִּי תִהְיֶה אֶלֶּם וְלֹא תִּהְיֶה אֶלֶּם וְלֹא תִּהְיֶה אֶלֶּם" וְלֹא תִּהְיֶה אֶלֶּם וְלֹא תִּהְיֶה אֶלֶּם
וְלֹא תִּהְיֶה אֶלֶּם וְלֹא תִּהְיֶה אֶלֶּם וְלֹא תִּהְיֶה אֶלֶּם

Another one. Someone's reading my things, writing in my thoughts.

No, the opposite.

There was someone wasn't there? A long time ago. Or maybe yesterday. This morning? There was a house. He took my pages. No. What am I talking about? Must have been a dream.

Like the one I had the other day. Or was it just now? Was I asleep? I must have been. I remember being tall. I remember running. No, not running loping, then I came back here.

But which here? Is it the same here as the here before or the here before that or the one before that or another one? Their voices are telling me וְלֹא תִּהְיֶה אֶלֶּם וְלֹא תִּהְיֶה אֶלֶּם. That there's no way out.

Where did I put my teeth
