Fon, do you? We do!

Hey Anne,

Thanks again for agreeing to stop by my mom's old place at #26 to help out with Lutz. I wish I could have introduced you to her properly, but I suppose we'll have to make do with a tour of the house she spent a few decades living in instead.

But anyway, Lutz: There are a few basic things he needs: food, walks, and play. Cuddling and kissing him is fine too! He gets one scoop of food three times a day and can have as many treats as you see fit. He needs to be walked at least three times a day. We usually go out to that big tourist spot across town (picked up a key chain last time we went), but if you don't feel like going east of Bristlecone, the park should be just fine.

He likes when you throw the ball around with him in the backyard too.

Don't want to just write out the code for the house, but so you can actually get in: remember the conversation we had the other day about the program? ~~Last week~~

~~I actually had to reset the code, and I did it by applying the scores we discussed to a default~~ Actually, you know what? This is too hard to talk around.

Just call me when you're at the door, and I can tell you.

You're welcome to anything in the fridge.

Thanks again babe,

Nathan

P.S. Would you also mind closing the curtains when you get there? Since the house faces south, the afternoon sunlight can be too much for the low light plants.
