

To: Anne

Details

Tuesday 7:31 am

Lutz says he loves you

You're going to ask me for a favor aren't you?

Yeahhh I was hoping you could walk him for me sometime today? I'm gonna be at the rink late getting program straight with H and L.

How are they doing? Are the needed improvements happening?

Not yet. The past few weeks they've hit a bit of a plateau. The practice scores I've been giving them for each move haven't budged in either direction. Obviously we're aiming for +5 to every element, but we're trending below that almost entirely across the board. I think they're both starting to get in their heads about it, keep reciting the list scores aloud to the point where it's running through my head like a catchy pop tune, minus something minus something, etc.

I find that extremely concerning...

I don't think it's too dire. Their lowest score is -1 right now. Far from ideal, but could be way worse. There's still time to get everything straightened out. They're just a little out of sync is all. Used to happen to me and Car sometimes before big events, but everything always fell into place right when it needed to

Here's hoping.

If it helps you spend more time with the two of

when it needed to

Here's hoping.

If it helps you spend more time with the two of them, of course I'll walk Lutz.

Is he at the rink with you now? Remember Carol told you this is a NO DOGGO zone!

I know that

and you know I know that

he's at my mom's house

Uptown or downtown?

same side of town as the best coffee in Three Pines, which I can take you out for as thanks later this week.

As long as it doesn't distract you from practice. I'm not paying you to go gallivanting off with me, after all.

Sure. Message received, boss.

But you know what? Now that I think about it, I have to stop by there soon anyhow. I was so groggy on my last visit that I accidentally stole an entire coaster.

OK. Just found the address in my planner. I've got to swing by the rink first but I can stop by afterward.

OK. Just found the address in my planner. I've got to swing by the rink first but I can stop by afterward.

But I am NOT cleaning up ANY PEE in this outfit!

YES YES thank you Anne!!!!!! 🥰🥰🥰🥰🥰

Might be too busy to talk when you're here, but I'll leave a jelly doughnut and a hot chocolate out at the side of the rink for you.

<3

Tuesday 5:25 pm

Just left the house Lutzie's doing great! He misses you very much. Might have gotten jelly stains a couple places. My apologies, I'll pay for any cleaning needed.

By the way, did you get a new camera? Saw it on the kitchen table. Very fancy. Planning on analyzing practice videos?

No, actually. I just found it at the rink. Might just be lost and found, but it was on when I found it. Meaning someone might have been snooping on practice.

Lee.

I'm going to sue that man into oblivion.

Gonna check on whatever he recorded tonight, I'll let you know the extent.

Tuesday 11:58 pm

Any news on those recordings?

No. It was nothing. I'm handling it.

Wednesday 2:12 pm

Did you say something to Harrison about us???????

Pick up your phone and answer me this instant. He's livid!!! You're going to need to speak to him about this. Tell him he misunderstood or that you were just joking.

It just slipped out. Sorry, but I think you could calm down a little. Your son is an adult and so are you. You can both deal with him not being your only real human connection.

Answer. My. Call.

Nope. Not gonna talk to you when you're like this. I can talk to Harrison sometime soon if he needs help getting his head around this, but I won't lie to him.

This could negatively affect his focus, which could mean that it could ruin his performance in the tournament and therefore his shot at the next Olympics. As your employer, I direct you to say whatever he needs to hear for that not to happen.

Wow. As my employer? Not what you were last

Wow. As my employer? Not what you were last night, but okay. Honestly, I'm not interested in continuing our personal relationship if you're going to freak out the second someone catches wind. Sorry Anne. I don't think we should do this anymore. It's clearly bringing you more stress than it's worth.

You know what? Fine. We don't need to speak of this if you're not going to respect my wishes or accept any very rightfully earned criticism. I have my hands full enough trying to put out the fire you've ever so graciously started by upsetting Harrison like this. I don't need you to be anything more than his coach right now, or ever again.

Talk to him. Make this okay.

Whatever. Fine.

Read at 5:25 pm