NARRATIVE

On the above listed date and time I was on a routine patrol in Car-2A when I was dispatched to the Three Pines Ice Rink for the report of a potential vehicular assault.

When I arrived on the scene, I met the reporting party, Sofia de la Torre, at the front of the rink. She was visibly distressed and had considerable difficulty relaying information.

Ms. de la Torre relayed that she arrived in the rink's parking lot at approximately 6:35 AM in order to practice ice skating. As she exited her car and began to approach the rink's front door, she heard the loud sound of a car's engine revving behind her.

Ms. de la Torre then looked behind her to see a black convertible with tinted windows idling 40 yards away from her. The car's high beams were activated and shone directly into her eyes. Due to this factor, she was only able to see two of the letters on the vehicle's license plate number: J and D.

The vehicle then began to accelerate directly toward Ms. de la Torre, who avoided the path of the vehicle by jumping to the right at the last moment, sustaining cuts and bruising to her right arm and the right side of her face.

According to Ms. de la Torre, she then ran straight into the building for safety. After several moments passed, she looked back into the lot and saw no sign of the vehicle or its driver. She then contacted 911.

When asked, Ms. de la Torre noted that she believed that she had seen the vehicle parked in the rink's lot a handful of times in the past week, but was uncertain who the vehicle belonged to. She was convinced that the driver's intention was to kill or otherwise seriously injure her.

I observed no tire tracks or physical evidence of the car's presence at the scene, but did visually confirm Ms. de la Torre's injuries. She declined my offer to call for emergency medical services.

Likely not enough information to find anyone, but I'll put out a BOLD to the county for the car's general description.
